Landmark Underwriting Announces Leadership Transitions as Business Enters Next Phase of Growth

London — 1 November 2026 — Landmark Underwriting today announced a series of leadership transitions as the business enters its next phase of growth within Bishop Street Underwriters. Shareholders Ross Lazaroo-Hood and David Robinson have stepped away from their ownership positions, while Managing Director David Ratledge has concluded his tenure following a period of significant growth and transformation for the business. Landmark thanks all three for their respective contributions to the company's development and success and wishes them well in their future endeavours.

Ross Lazaroo-Hood established Landmark in 2016, creating the foundation and vision on which the business stands today. From a standing start, he grew the company into a global insurance intermediary, assembling the team and culture that continue to define Landmark's approach to the market. As Landmark continues to scale within the Bishop Street platform, Ross has elected to exit his shareholding, and the company thanks him for his contribution as Landmark's founder.

"I am proud of the achievements and successes that my company has reached, an international company I originally set up on my own in 2016 then grew with an amazing team to a global insurance intermediary. Landmark lives on in safe hands for our capacity partners, brokers and our amazing teams. I have confidence in the future for Landmark with BSU and RedBird Capital as they continue the journey. Here's to the future and many more successes." — Ross Lazaroo-Hood

David Robinson joined Landmark in 2018 and, over the course of nearly a decade, helped establish the carrier partnerships and geographic footprint that positioned Landmark as a global intermediary. His product development work also helped shape Landmark's offering. As Landmark enters its next chapter within the Bishop Street platform, David has elected to exit his shareholding and leave the business to pursue other opportunities. The company thanks him for his foundational contribution to Landmark's development.

"It has been an incredible journey building Landmark from the ground up alongside Ross, Sitki and our teams. I'm proud of the international footprint and capacity relationships we built together, and the products we developed along the way. I leave confident that Landmark is well positioned for its next chapter with BSU, and I look forward to watching the business continue to grow." — David Robinson

David Ratledge joined Landmark in 2022 and led the build-out of the business's infrastructure, laying the groundwork that supported the company's subsequent doubling in size. His work establishing the operational foundation — from systems and processes to team structure — gave Landmark the platform it needed to scale efficiently through a period of rapid growth. Following this period of significant growth and transformation, David has concluded his tenure with the business to pursue other opportunities, and Landmark thanks him for the contribution he made to its development and success.

"Joining Landmark and helping to shape the business through a period of significant growth has been a hugely rewarding experience. I'm particularly proud of the infrastructure, systems and team we built, which helped give the business the platform to scale and supported its development as part of Bishop Street. It has been a privilege to work alongside so many talented people, and I leave proud of what we achieved together. I wish Landmark, Bishop Street and the whole team every success for the next chapter." — David Ratledge

"We're grateful to Ross Lazaroo-Hood and David Robinson for their leadership contributions to Landmark's success, and to David Ratledge for the direction and discipline he brought to our growth phase," said Sitki Gelmen, Deputy Chair, Bishop Street Underwriters UK. "We're excited about the road ahead as we continue to invest in the platform."

These transitions follow Bishop Street Underwriters' announcement on October of a new UK group structure, Bishop Street Underwriters UK ("BSU UK"), bringing Landmark together with Avid Insurance and Incorporated Insurance Group. As part of this structure, Deepti Janak, Landmark's Chief Financial Officer, will assume additional leadership responsibilities for Landmark and will work closely with Sitki Gelmen, Steve Gibson, Jon Terry and John Inwood as part of the BSU UK leadership team.

There will be no change to day-to-day operations or client relationships as a result of these transitions.
